Helaba Invest reports new subscriptions totalling € 800 million across its alternative investment funds

Frankfurt am Main – Helaba Invest has successfully obtained subscriptions of € 800 million to alternative funds and co-investments for institutional clients in the current year. The real estate asset class was the primary focus of these investments, which accounting for € 400 million. A further € 400 million was allocated to the infrastructure and private equity segments.

“Alternative investments are key components of highly diversified institutional portfolios. Robust demand for alternative assets demonstrates that investors are increasingly focusing on stable, long-term source of sources,” said Dr Dirk Krupper, a member of the Management Board and Head of Alternative Investments. “In particular, real estate and infrastructure investments offer attractive diversification and inflation-hedging potential in a volatile market environment.”

Since 2012, Helaba Invest has been providing institutional investors with direct and indirect access to alternative investments, primarily through its bespoke fund structures. Its broad product range encompasses real estate, infrastructure and private market investments across both equity and debt strategies. The company predominantly pursues a multi manager approach, which facilitates efficient and broadly diversified management of both indirect and direct investments.

“Thanks to our long-established network, investors gain access to a wide range of alternative asset classes with our platform. The diversity of individual asset classes requires continuous market monitoring and a rigorous investment process,” Krupper added. Using its proprietary platform, which invests in more than 700 target funds across Europe, the United States and the Asia-Pacific region, Helaba Invest manages assets of € 20 billion across 100 single-investor and 14 multi-investor funds.

Helaba Invest works alongside its clients throughout the entire investment cycle — from the selection of suitable managers and ongoing monitoring of investments through to the strategic development of portfolios. In the course of this process, it manages mandates for large, medium-sized and smaller investors. Sustained interest from institutional investors underlines Helaba Invest’s investment expertise and market-leading position in the field of alternative investments.
